“ I remember meeting him for the first time at the bus stop of our 5th grade year. He was so quiet and never really said anything. That changed quickly. I befriended him the day he came. I moved from there in 6th grade and i didnt really keep in touch with anybody. When i heard that Brian died i cried for days. I was so depressed that a close, but at the same time distant, friend had died. I love you Brian. You will always be in my heart. Your old friend, breanne

“ My name is Ms. Bahm. My students had a poetry assignment, where they had to choose a special person to write a poem about. Kara Jackson, one of my students, chose Brian as her special person. Here is her poem about your son who touched her heart.

Brian

*When you came into my life,
you made things better.*

*You were funny.
You made people laugh,
especially me.
You were good company.
I couldn't have asked
for a better friend.*

*Just knowing that
when I got off my bus,
and would see you,
I would put a smile on my face.*

*You had a passion for sports.
Seeing you shoot a hoop,
or throw a football,
a huge smile came upon your face.*

*Things took a sharp turn
and you left.
Just like that.
Without a goodbye,
you left my life,
and everyone else's.*

*May 21, 2014,
you passed away.
And ever since that happened,
my days haven't been good.*

*You were a light in my life.
But now you're gone.
Now my days are darker
than night.*

*Brian, you meant so much.
Everyone says,
you are in a better place now.
But, I feel like your better place
is here with me
and your family and friends.*

*Forever you're in my heart.
A lock secures my love
for you,
in a safe that no one else
will be able to find,
but me and you.
Love,
Kara Jackson*

“ I found a beautiful poem that will hopefully bring your spirits up, and to not grieve in the loss of your son . The poem is titled the Angel Light .

*"Although you may not see them, you're always in their sight.
They bring the gift of love and guidance, it is called the angel light.
You know they always hear you, to them your voice is dear.
With the comfort that they bring to you, you need not ever fear.
So here's a place for to come, to do with angels that must be done.
To make our world whole and bright, and share with all, the angel light."*

I honestly barley knew your son Brian, but I saw him everyday and let me tell you, he was an amazing person . His smile brought joy to everyone around him . He was very charismatic and loving . He was loved by so many people, especially his wonderful family . You gave him the gift of life, and I'm sure he appreciates that very much . You gave him an amazing family and a roof over his head, which is all you need . In those short 14 years, he lived his life . Now he is living in a place we like to call paradise . You set him free and your son became a beautiful angel . He has now spread his wings . Gone but never forgotten . Rest in peace Brian McGuire . I'm so sorry for your loss .

“ Dear Mr. & Mrs. McGuire and to all of Brian's Family,
I do not know any of you personally nor did I know Brian. However,
the news of his
Sudden death last week and the circumstances deeply saddened me.
As I read all of the condolence messages from his friends it is quite evident that He was a great guy, a great friend, and a genuinely nice person. If that can bring any Comfort to you, maybe not right now but in the coming weeks and months, grasp it
And hold it tightly.
As I looked at the slideshow of family photos, It is very obvious that your family is very happy and loving. Every picture shows the people with big smiles and everyone is hugging . A sure sign of closeness and good times. When the time is right, try
to remember the moment those photos were taken and the occasion and hold on
to that memory.
My deepest sympathy, my prayers for your peace and strength will continue. NH

“ Memories: Brian and I were really good friends. We didn't really hangout, but we talked all the time in school and texted each other. I never thought to see him go so fast. Brian was an amazing person and could always put a smile on my face. He always asked how I was doing and cared so much. I knew Brian was going through a lot in his life and I was always there to help and listen to him. Brian made a huge impact in my life and many other's lives. I know Brian will never be forgotten and will be in my heart forever. I can't wait to see him again someday in Heaven with him waiting for me and all of his friends and family to give us a big hug. Let's just all know even though as we go along with our lives, Brian will always be watching over us. Have fun in paradise Brian <3.

To Brian's Family: I'm so glad I got to meet you today! It helped me so much and going to his Celebration of Life was a great impact for me. I hope everyone who goes to his memorial can get to know The Lord because of him. I'll keep you all in my prayers, so sorry for your loss.

“ I did not know Brian, but that is no excuse not to send my condolences to the family. As a student at Lenape high school, I know what it is like to face such a loss, as I had to deal with loosing a parent in the seventh grade when I was only thirteen years of age. In regards to family and friends, it is a time of embrace. Do not grieve over the loss of a child, but instead, recall the wonderful memories in which he has brought to you all over the years. May you all find closure and happiness as you recollect on good times and fond moments. Sincerely, A Lenape Student “ Hello Brian, I hope you are resting in peace in beautiful Heaven. I will miss your kindness. You were truly one of the nicest and politest kids I have ever met. I don't say that too often about kids....so I really mean it! :) Our last "joke" together was you skipping school, but I no you didn't. Condolences to your family.
