“ I would like to express my deepest sympathies to the Cameron family. I worked with Colin for more than five years at Electronic Materials in Newark, DE. Colin was passionate about his work, but his passion for his family was even stronger. He once shared some wise insights and gave me guidance that still directs me today. He was a cherished friend to many, and he will be missed. May Colin rest in peace. Warmly, Robin Sprague

“ Dear Colin’s family, friends and co-workers,
I’ll compare Colin to a candle to express what I think he meant for a bunch of us:

Simple: in his look, his attitude, his language (who knew there were so sport idioms in american language!), his belongings (any of you think he could have driven his cars longer than he did?)

Warm: intimidating the first times you see him, yet so approachable and warm when you start knowing him

Available: you needed him, he was here immediately, under any condition. Always ready to help in a storm; you know, those times you run out of power

Vibrant: he would fill the room by his presence. Actually, a simple spark and here he goes on fire!

Enlightening: in all directions, every person in the room, without distinction

Bright: I would say very smart for Colin. He was a damn fast thinker, good luck keeping up with him!

Leading: you also had the chance to do a part of the Life journey with him, he showed you the way like the great leader he was, bright especially in the darkest moment and places

But a candle is also self-consuming: how tiring is it to keep this intensity going, every minute, every day, Colin? Intense is a light word for you!

Fragile: we had the chance to enjoy his presence but in a blow ... he is all gone

Then it is dark, and it will look dark for a while. Like for a candle, we will regret we did not take better care of him so that we could have gone further together.

But he brought us very far, far enough that we will see the end of the tunnel. It will take a little while. At some point, we will see the light and remember, for the rest of our time, how much he helped us along the Life journey

“ My time working with Colin will be forever cherished and I learned so much from him. He brought incredible integrity to everything and every day, always choosing what was right over what was expected. He brought so much energy and passion to work, but also knew how to make it fun. There are so many memories and a very sad day for anyone who had the privilege to know him. Colin was an incredible person, leader and friend. My condolences to Colin's family and friends. He will be so dearly missed.

“ Colin, i woke up to the shocking and sadden news on last Sunday and i can't help to read it 3 times to believe it...I remember our conversations vividly before my solo trip to Europe in 2017 and you laughed hard on my worries. you remembered those little funny things of me and made fun of me when we had chance to catch up, or even picked up on me in meetings that made me feel we were connected. 16 years of working with/for you, you were an role mode for me to look up to. I felt safe and free to speak the right things when you are around, and you made people honest and do the right things for the business. I will always remember the values you hold up to, your good heart, your dignity, and your care to all of us. You will be greatly missed. May you rest in peace. “ It was such a privilege to experience Colin's leadership. His candor and care were balanced so uniquely, resulting in a leader that makes everyone around him more honest, and a better version of themselves. I always felt happy when Colin was in a meeting, knowing he would keep us all grounded in what really matters.

Colin,

From what I could see, you truly loved what you did and those around you that you worked with. I'm so sorry this was taken away from you so abruptly. My thoughts and prayers are with you and your family and your work family in Newark DE.

“ I am so sorry to hear about Colin's passing. Colin was a great man with integrity and passion for work and family. He expected the best from us, and we strived to meet his expectations. I will always remember our weekly tech service staff meetings in the Newark Executive Conference room reviewing customer complaints. This is many years ago now but feels like yesterday. He would advocate and push more from the team on behalf of customers and at the same time gave us the support and advice that we needed. We would squirm at our seats with Colin's intense questioning and would line up to go to his office to get his 1-on-1 advice and benefiting from his many years of experience. Thank you, Colin, for everything that you have taught me. You will be missed.
