“ I always enjoyed the visits Bomber and Andy made to Kentucky. They gave my dad the chance to cut loose, have some big laughs and remember the ones they fought with during Vietnam. Bomber had a way of making you feel loved, important, special, embarrassed, uncomfortable and humiliated all at once. There are few people as free and generous as he was. I admire that in addition to all his other accomplishments.

“ I didn't know Bomber very well, he was a member of the Happy Hour like my dad. The few times I did spend in his company he was funny as hell! When I was diagnosed with cancer, he gave my dad a prayer that he had carried with him during his tour in Vietnam, to give to me. I was very touched by his very personal gift! I carried it with me during my treatments and still have it. Thank you Bomber, for your thoughts and prayers for me. You were from what I know of you, a funny and caring man! May you rest in peace. You gave a kindness to someone you barely knew and you will forever be remembered!

“ A southern boy and a northern boy that the Army put together at Ft. Campbell, Ky. We left the states in July of '68 and pulled a tour in "Nam", we came home separately and found each other at the Viet Nam Memorial in Washington in '82. It's been many visits, we have laughed, cried and spent many hours of talking and comparing war stories. War stories are a veterans shorthand for reminding his buddies how deep the affection for each other runs. It's shorthand, and sometimes even a shield for deeper emotions that need not be spoken. it's that shared common experience that bonded Bomber and I. He loved coming to Winchester, my home, and making fun of us all down here. One of the supreme phrases among veterans to pass judgment on the character of another is the simple question, "Would you share a foxhole with him?" Well, I have with Bomber, I loved him as a brother and I will miss him. My heart and my prayers go out to Nancy, Eddie, Missy and all the family.

I also served with Bomber at Ft. Campbell and in Viet Nam. He had a special talent that made you feel like you were the most important person in the world to him. I,Il never forget the time 30 plus years after we returned from Nam that my wife Lucy told me that I had a phone call from Bomber and he was looking for Zips. She had no idea who the hell Zips was, so Bomber filled her in. I'll miss his humor, his big heart and his friendship over the years. With tears on my keyboard, my thoughts and prayers are for Bomber and his family Nancy, Missy, Eddie and to all the people he touched. Zips, Troop C, 2/17 Cav. 101 St Airborne Division
