“ I wish there was a better way to the ending of a wonderful life my father had with us, and the wonderful times he provided for me and my sisters. He really worked hard to provide for his family and usually worked by himself. As I grew older I knew how tired he must have been when he got home from work, but he always had time to go out and play catch with me, throw the football around or maybe play a little basketball. But he never hesitated to come outside and just fool around, and for this I will be forever grateful that we shared these times. Even today I still run into people and they tell me that my dad was their baseball coach or football coach. He not only took the time to fool around with his family but he also took the time to help these other children he didn't even know. To this very day the thing I miss the most were those times of just playing ball together. I love you very much pop even though I didn't tell you as much as I should have. Rest in peace until we can meet again and have a catch with that baseball.

Love you Always your son
Harry
