I'm crying. Feeling nostalgic as I age, I did a google search for Church Massara and then for Marion. Was saddened to read they both had passed away. I knew both Marion and Chuck from our neighborhood in North Phila. I went to school with Marion; went to her house, rode the bus together to school; danced at St. Mary's Eternal Church. My brother, Joe, worked at the movie theater. I believe Church also worked there. I remember he played football and we went to see him play. The last time I saw Marion was at a Corpus Christi reunion on City Line Avenue. I remember when I saw her I told her how beautiful she was. I had a crush on Church but he preferred Marion. She and Chuck were meant for each other. May they both rest in peace.

“ We are so sorry for your loss. Mrs. Massara was one of the sunniest people I have ever known. I remember hanging with her and Mr. Massara when they had the Mystic Island shore House. Even if “Chuck” got grumpy, she was as bubbly and happy as could be. Having known her through a friendship with Chris and then Jen I could see at every family function that she didn’t just love her kids, grandkids, and great grandchildren, she thoroughly enjoyed them too. The thought of her always brings a smile to my face. I hope the happy memories of her help your hearts heal from your loss.
